Welcoming Message

Dear Colleagues and friends:

On behalf of the Organizing Committee, I am delighted to extend to all of you a warm welcome to the 6th Huaxia International Congress of Endocrinology (6th IHCE) here in Shanghai, China. This Congress is to be held from December 10-12, 2010.

Present at this congress will be around more than 900 delegates from the mainland, Hong Kong, Taiwan and international Chinese community. All presentations in this congress will cover a wide range of topics on endocrinology.

The scientific program has been designed to encourage discussion and interacting with speakers, which will offer a wonderful opportunity for colleagues from different areas to exchange on the latest advances in basic research and clinical practices of endocrinology. I wish all of you will enjoy this unique learning experience.

Shanghai is the largest and most populous city in China. Shanghai is more and more a popular destination for tourists and can be full of surprises, as EXPO2010 is being show.

Wish you all an enjoyable and fruitful congress in Shanghai.

Guang NING, M.D.

Chairman, Organizing Committee, The 6th International Huaxia Congress of Endocrinology.
